

EXPORT BREAKFAST BRIEFING SERIES 2008

Join Patton Boggs for our Export Breakfast Briefing Series programs this year. Our complimentary programs will explore the key issues impacting the export arena this year and how they will affect you and your business.

Wednesday, March 12

Voluntary Disclosures: What Does "Doing it Right Mean?"

Voluntary disclosures are a fact of corporate life. But recent shifts in enforcement at the Departments of State, Commerce, and Treasury require a reassessment of how to approach voluntary disclosures.

Wednesday, July 22

CFIUS and Export Controls: How Much is Too Much?

Foreign acquisitions of US assets and companies require enhanced regulatory vigilance. Recent Congressional amendments to the Exon-Florio legislation alter certain requirements in CFIUS submissions and raise questions regarding the level and type.

Wednesday, December 10

Export Essentials: The Fundamentals of Export Control Laws and Regulations

This all-day seminar is designed to introduce relatively new export control officials to the framework of U.S. export laws and regulations. The course will cover registration, licensing, exemptions, exceptions, recordkeeping, and reporting requirements.

Investigations and Export Controls: Sub-Series

The Government's renewed interest in prosecuting export control cases coincides with the administrative export agencies' continuing enforcement efforts. Approaches to criminal export cases, however, vary from those used in administrative matters. How can one run these two investigations concurrently and how does co-counsel work harmoniously together when the objectives may conflict? We'll explore these issues and explain the pitfalls to avoid in this sub-series.

October 16

Part Two: Criminal and Administrative Counsel Working Together: A Marriage of Inconvenience

November 12

Part Three: Resolving Criminal and Civil Export Cases: Who Settles First?

All programs will be held in Patton Boggs' Northern Virginia office. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. and the program will run from 8:00 - 10:00 a.m., unless otherwise noted.
